Army physicians are part of a truly integrated health care team whose goal is to provide the highest standard of patient care possible. Treatment is strictly based on a patient's needs rather than his or her ability to pay.

As a member of the Army Health Care Team, you work directly with other dedicated professionals from all six corps, which includes the Medical Corps, Medical Service Corps, Medical Specialist Corps, Dental Corps, Veterinary Corps and Nurse Corps, plus enlisted military and civilian employees, all comprising the Army Medical Department. The result is a very comprehensive and holistic approach to patient care. Teamwork does not mean a loss of autonomy. We designed the Army Health Care Team to allow each of our health care professionals to excel in his or her area of expertise. We also give health care professionals much more responsibility. After all, as a physician and a commissioned officer in the Army Medical Department, you will be trained to be a leader. The high level of personal responsibility that comes with being a physician in the Army is sure to make you grow as a professional. You will benefit from unique and diverse experiences in Army medicine, including clinical, field and humanitarian missions. Because of the wide scope of the Army's activities, you may have the chance to see and study diseases that are not usually encountered in civilian practice. Likewise, our large patient population means you will see a greater diversity in medical problems. Regardless of your specialty, you can be certain you'll encounter many stimulating medical challenges while serving in the Army Medical Corps.

For medical residents we offer financial assistance to help you through your residency serving as a Reserve Officer.

All specialties are welcome to apply!

Upson is committed to hiring professional and compassionate physicians in both primary care and specialties while emphasizing physician retention.

Great physician practice opportunities for board certified or board eligible physicians who are interested in busy practices, high quality patient care/service delivery and an excellent collegial environment in a beautiful community.

We value physicians and their families and want them to find a “good, long-term fit” for a practice and a community. We enjoy building relationships with physicians from the job search process through the move, the practice years and retirement.

Tucked in the Pine Mountain range and along the banks of the Flint River, Thomaston, Georgia, is conveniently located one hour from Atlanta, Macon and Columbus.

Even though Thomaston is so proximate to urban areas, it has the charm and lifestyle of a rural setting. The area is great for the outdoorsman with excellent fishing, deer and turkey hunting. The local schools, organized sports, facilities and arts activities make the area ideal for raising a family in a strong community.

Vidalia Pediatric Clinic was founded by the late Dr. Larry E. Smith in 1983. For three years, Dr. Larry Smith worked long, hard hours building this practice, seeing patients in the office and at the hospital as a solo practitioner and the only pediatrician in Vidalia. In 1986, Dr. Smith began welcoming other pediatricians and practitioners to help him serve the pediatric needs.

Dr. Smith continued to work and build Vidalia Pediatric Clinic up until he was diagnosed with Leukemia in 1994 and passed away in January of 1995.

“Dr. Pete” Lafuente took over the clinic after the death of Dr. Larry Smith. In November 1997, after Dr. Pete’s decision to continue practicing as a contracted physician, Lisa Smith purchased Vidalia Pediatric Clinic.

For over two decades, Lisa has been contracting physicians and mid-level practitioners to serve the pediatric patients of Vidalia and surrounding counties.

In 2004, due to the growing demand for pediatric care, Vidalia Pediatric Clinic opened a sister clinic, Tots To Teens Medical Center, in Vidalia. With the help of great physicians and practitioners, such as Dr. Etta Boss-Cole and Sam Oates, we have been able to continue the legacy of Dr. Larry Smith.
